Primary Election Tuesday; Polling Places Stay Same

Registered voters of Ocean Beach last week received their sample ballots for the primary city election to be held next Tuesday, March 13. The voting will be for councilmen, school board members and municipal judges, and the polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. All polling places in Ocean Beach area will be the same as for the general election last November. All voters receiving ballots also received a slip giving the address of the particular polling place where they are to vote, and are urged to take note accordingly. To be voted on Tuesday also will be 11 proposed amendments to the city charter. Most of these deal with police and firemen's pension funds and are intended to make them more sound and responsive to the members of the two departments.

At this primary voting for council candidates will be by districts only. In the first district, of which Ocean Beach is a part, the four candidates are G. C. Crary (incumbent), Carl Schroder, Semon T. Johnson and Alton H. Putnam. The two getting the most votes will be nominated at this primary and will be on the ballots for the entire city in the final election to be held April 17. For judge, department 3, Philip Smith is unopposed, and for judge, department 5, the two candidates are John J. Brennan (incumbent), and Lowell Howe, with one to be voted for. For the school board, there are three candidates, Fred E. Lindley (incumbent), Harvey L. Lewis Jr., and Samuel J. McClendon, with two to be voted for.

Student Talent Program Given at Point Loma High

Lela Gardner, commissioner of cultural affairs, presented the semi-annual student talent program for assemblies, Thursday, at 9:10 and again at 9:50 a.m. Purpose of this program was to offer opportunities to those talented students in the school to appear before their classmates in a formal concert-type of program. Students appearing on the program had not been on a program of this nature before. Those participating included Helen Williams, dramatic soprano; Bob Turley, baritone; Anne Parrish, pianist; Peggy Crawford and Natalie Harpst, duopianists; Martie Jacobsen, Priscilla Welch, and Mariann Barch, trio-vocalist; Elna Abbott, accordionist; Cleo Needham, soft-shoe dancer. These students represented ninth, tenth, eleventh and twelfth grades. Miss Jane Parrott, music instructor, directed the program.

Five Seniors Honored

Two In Contest
In the annual American Legion oratorical contest for San Diego county high schools held Sunday in town, Ocean Beach Post, Clyde A. Wright, No. 433, sponsored Vesta Robbids, Point Loma high school speech student. Vesta gave her original oration "The Constitution in a Changing World." The San Diego Women's Post, No. 451, sponsored Claire Jones, Point Loma high student in her original oration "The Rights We Defend." Earl Shaw, commander of the local post, and Mrs. Shaw, attended the contest.

Play Sell-Out Both Nights
"Little Women," the high school play presented in the 700-seat capacity auditorium March 1 and 2, was a sell-out both nights and the second night a number of people had to be turned away. Gross receipts were approximately $680, reports Miss Jewellene Brodie, the play director. The net, she said, will be used to help buy equipment for the school's auditorium activities. General opinion expressed was that the play was one of the best acted in the history of the school, reflecting credit both on the director and others in charge of the play as well as on all members of the cast.

Advantages and Work of OPA Told To Kiwanis Club

The local price and rationing board serving Ocean Beach and adjoining areas, issued no less than 568,000 documents, ration books, etc., during 1944, Ernest Shields of the OPA district office in San Diego, told the Kiwanis club Tuesday evening. No. 4 food ration books totaled 43,000, indicating that the population of this area, is approximately that figure, he said. For the entire district, 12,338,000 documents were issued by the 22 boards in 1944, he said. Figures on the personnel, he gave, were as follows:

For the San Diego district, there are 453 board members, all volunteers, and 296 volunteers not members of the boards, all of whom work without pay. Paid workers total 142, he said, and throughout the nation 75 percent of the ration board work is done by volunteers and without pay.

Main speaker for the evening was Stewart Wicklin, director of the San Diego district of the OPA. He was introduced by John E. Loftus, program chairman for the evening.

Boiled down, the OPA figures to one thing, said Wicklin, and that is a break or stop to inflation. He particularly urged more compliance and better understanding of the OPA. In the last analyses, the OPA, is a service organization and is trying to do a service job, he said. We are going to keep it going after the war only as long as we have to, he opined.

Dr. W. B. Oster, chairman of the attendance committee, announced that the club had set a record of having 100 percent attendance for both January and February, two months in succession.

Guests at the meeting were E. R. Griswold, member of the San Diego Kiwanis club, a guest of F. F. Swan; Walter Nelson of Atlantic, Iowa, a guest of his brother-in-law, Dr. Alfred Sands; Warren Meade of Ocean Beach, a guest of Father Phil Harris.

GIRL ON BICYCLE HAS NARROW ESCAPE WHEN STRUCK BY STREET BUS

Because of quick action on the part of a bus driver a little girl received only bruises and abrasions instead of perhaps losing her life. Frances Malone, 8, on her bicycle, darted in the path of a bus at the corner of Voltaire and Froude sts., at 3:45 p.m. Wednesday. The driver, Joseph B. Weibel, 33, of San Diego, swerved the bus across the street to the left in an effort to avoid hitting her. Investigating officers, Francis Clark and Charles Brookes, did not cite Weibel, but rather commended him on his driving in the emergency. After first aid by Police Surgeon Dr. J. W. Wilhoit, the girl was returned to her home, 2255 Seaside st.

IN THE SERVICE-

Sgt. Clorus Edwards of 4851 Newport Ave., has graduated from the Infantry School Battalion at Camp Pendleton, according to announcement made this week.

William J. Wigglesworth of 2808 Chatsworth Blvd., has been promoted to colonel, his wife reported Saturday. He is commanding officer of a B-17 Flying Fortress group in the European theatre of the war.

Delmore T. Ball, of Ocean Beach is now studying at the University of Texas, at Austin, in the Navy's V-12 program. He is a son of Major and Mrs. James Regan of 4925 Cape May Ave. Major Regan is with the Marine Corps.

Master Technical Sergeant Robert A. Fraser, another Ocean Beach Marine, attached to an Air Wing squadron in the Central Pacific, also has returned home on leave. He is the husband of Florence E. Fraser of 4928 Coronado Ave.

Corp. Robert A. Wedgewood, son of Dr. and Mrs. Paul Wedgewood of 1071 Sunset Cliffs Blvd., is expected home on furlough this weekend from England, where he was under treatment in a hospital after having been wounded in Normandy and in Germany.

Pvt. Edward T. Leech, son of Mrs. E. L. Nicklin of 5060 Saratoga Ave., writes his mother under date of Feb. 25 stating that he is well. Pvt. Leech, who is a graduate of Point Loma high school, has been overseas for two months in the Pacific, on duty with the Marine Corps.

Comdr. Cecil T. Caulfield of 4306 Newport Ave., has been decorated with a Bronze Star medal for "distinguishing himself as commanding officer of a U. S. ship in the summer of 1944 during the assault and capture of enemy-held islands," according to report received here Saturday.

Among the casualties in Europe reported during the past week were two Ocean Beach men reported wounded. One was Pfc. Robert McCaffrey, whose mother, Mrs. Eleanor McCaffrey, resides at 4834 Niagara Ave., and Pvt. Delmar Davis, whose wife lives in the Point Loma section of this area.

Chief Warrant Officer Wm. Roy Adams of 4976 Muir Ave., evidently is "doing his stuff" over in the South Pacific theatre of the war, where he is on duty as the chief engineer of a minesweeper. In a letter dated Feb. 16, which his wife received here last week, he wrote in part: "We really saw history being made this time. In fact, we set a few records ourselves. Late this afternoon one of the destroyers sent a message saying, 'Congratulations. We all admire the guts of your minesweeper crew.'"

Mrs. R. J. Bumbaugh of the local Bank of America staff has received an interesting letter from her husband, a sergeant in the Marine Corps, telling of the formal opening of an "Ordinance Company Enlisted Men's" club building on the Island of Guam on January 20, the only one of its kind in the Southwest Pacific thus far, he believes. Heading the list of officers present for the event was Major Gen. Erskine of the Marine Corps, accompanied by his staff. Twenty native girls from the other end of the island with their native dances provided the highlight of the entertainment. "The only trouble was," wrote Sgt. Bumbaugh, "their rules required them to start for their homes at 8 p.m." About 400 Marines took part in the dances and other entertainment provided, and of course, there was plenty of refreshments, he said. "We had splendid cooperation from the officers in getting the club started," he wrote. Sgt. Bumbaugh, who has been with the Marines for about 10 years, has been overseas for 25

If we used a whole page of the "News", we could not tell you all the things your Red Cross does to help suffering all over the world. You know what they do for our loved ones on the battle fronts, what they do to help make life a little brighter in the prison camps, what they do in the hospitals at the fronts and at home, what they do in emergencies everywhere. All we ask you to do is help in every way you can.

The things asked for in this column are to help the Red Cross effort. Card tables, book-cases, flower vases, lamps both table and floor, are badly needed. Musical instruments and books bring so much comfort to those in the South Pacific and in hospitals. Red Cross is the connecting link between you and your loved ones.

A large amount of Mother's Day greeting cards are wanted. Please send these in so that each boy can send a greeting to his mother. Don't forget.

Our cookies are one of the most enjoyed gifts the patients have. Last week we had 75 dozen cookies, three birthday cakes and 3½ dozen cup cakes. Many more casualties are arriving, so please help to enlarge our project. It is so little to do and gives so much pleasure to the recipients.

Give up some of your card tables, lamps, etc. You have an extra vase or two, I know, and you can buy a few Mother's Day cards and a few ash trays. Ash trays are needed all year round. You are the Red Cross. Do your part, our boys are doing or have done theirs.

For six days and six nights after abandoning a torpedoed ship in the Indian Ocean, Chief Mate Van Rutherford McCarthy remained at the helm of a lifeboat. Buffeted for sixty-three hours by a terrific gale, he kept the tiny craft afloat and brought his men through safe. He slept only six hours and kept the morale of his men high. He has been awarded a Merchant Marine Distinguished Service Medal. War Bonds back such courageous men as Chief Mate McCarthy. Buy more War Bonds.

Abbott & Costello Coming in Person To Pacific Square

Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, outstanding comedy team of stage, screen and radio will appear in person at Pacific Square, March 9, 10, 11, the greatest attraction Pacific Square has presented in San Diego in five years. With Abbott and Costello will appear Eddie Oliver, his piano, and his orchestra.

Lou Costello first learned the tricks of acting on the basketball court 18 years ago by trying to fool the referee. At that time the stocky comedian weighed 135 pounds. He was five feet, four inches tall. Beefy opponents in the professional league, in which he played, had a tendency to foul him. When they didn't, Lou would simulate being fouled. He could hoodwink the referee most of the time and the spectators all the time, so he worked himself into the enviable position of the underdog at the beginning of the game, and stayed there.

Abbott and Costello, who have won international fame for being the "bad boys" of screen and radio, are out to prove there really aren't any bad children. This, they hope to do through a new "ounce of prevention" drive. It will consist of a national youth-serving agency called the "Abbott and Costello Youth" club. Dedicated to constructive programs of recreation and entertainment, this club will be organized in neighborhoods harboring the largest juvenile delinquency rates.

Dr. S. E. McClendon To Make Race For Board of Education

No man, regardless of his profession, is too busy to devote time to public school affairs and to the betterment of health among school children in war and post-war times, says Samuel E. McClendon, M. D., San Diego pediatrician, in announcing his candidacy for election to the city board of education.

McClendon graduated from the University of Texas, received his medical degree from Creighton

University and took additional graduate work at Harvard. He is currently serving as secretary of the California Heart association and is a member of the California Medical association. He is affiliated with the American College of Physicians and Surgeons and with the Certified Board of Pediatricians.

A former member of the city board of health and the state board of health, McClendon is past president of the San Diego County Medical association and was recently president of the Public Health League of California.

A resident of San Diego for 22 years, McClendon is married and the father of three children.

Christian Science Sunday Lesson on 'Man'

The Golden Text in the Sunday Lesson-Sermon on "Man" in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, is from I Corinthians and reads, "Speak unto all the congregation of the children of Israel, and say unto them, Ye shall be holy; for I the Lord your God am holy."

A Bible selection from Genesis asserts that "God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them." And in the Psalms, David sings, "When I consider thy heavens, the work of thy fingers, the moon and the stars, which thou hast ordained; What is man, that thou art mindful of him? . . . Thou madest him to have dominion over the works of thy hands; thou hast put all things under his feet."

In "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" Mary Baker Eddy says, "Man is not matter; he is not made up of brain, blood, bones, and other material elements. The Scriptures inform us that man is made in the image and likeness of God. Matter is not that likeness. The likeness of Spirit cannot be so unlike Spirit."

Merchants to Cut Down on Paper to Wrap Up Parcels

San Diego has declared a "Paper Holiday," announces the war salvage committee of the civilian defense council, after obtaining the united cooperation of the merchants.

During the "Paper holiday," which will last indefinitely, retail merchants will issue no wrapping paper for articles unless these are necessary for sanitary or protective purposes, according to L. M. Nichols, co-chairman of the war salvage committee.

The "paper holiday" was declared at the request of the war production board, which pointed to the "critical situation regarding the shortage of paper for military purposes."

"The cooperation of every housewife is urgently requested to make our holiday a success," said Nichols. "This means that all will have to save their shopping bags and other containers, and carry them to the stores to bring home the unwrapped articles."

Praising the move as "one in the interests of the war effort," officials of the Merchants Association of San Diego have pledged the cooperation of the stores, and have issued a bulletin to all their members.

CONSERVATION WEEK

In these days when the United States is pouring out its resources in support of the fight for a decent world, the word "conservation" may seem somewhat out of tune with the demands of the time. Yet, as we know, conservation was never more important to the nation than it is now.

Rationing is a means of conserving our food supply, gasoline, and rubber. Paper, tin and metal conservation are vital phases of the war effort. In Europe conservation is a matter of life and death. Waste of food or fuel is generally punishable with severe penalties—if anyone has enough food or fuel to waste.

Conservation is really common sense. It should apply to every phase of our lives. We should conserve our time, opportunity, and especially our money. The dollars saved today will be on hand for the unforeseen needs of tomorrow. That millions of Californians are practicing this personal form of conservatism is reflected in the War Bond sales and the rising volume of bank savings in branch banks over the entire State.

California Conservation Week, March 7 to 14, was originally established to help acquaint everyone with the need of protecting our great natural treasures. Conserving water power, timberlands, water sheds, fertile valleys and rangelands protects these gifts of Nature not only for use in the war effort, but in peacetime, for ourselves and the generations to come.

Conservation Week calls for action as well as thought both during this week and throughout the entire year.

COD IS MY CO-PILOT

By COL. ROBERT L. SCOTT
WNU Features.

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I: Scott's early experiences with gliders and airplanes. He goes to Ft. McPherson and enlists in the regular army as a private.

CHAPTER II: Scott wins the West Point competitive exam and gets a furlough before reporting. He is graduated as a second lieutenant of infantry and goes to Europe, which he tours on a motorcycle. He sells his motorcycle and arrives at Kandahar Field, Texas.

CHAPTER III: Scott makes his first solo flight. Drives 1,300 miles to Georgia over every week-end to see his girl. Scott is now graduated from Kelly Field and has wings pinned on his chest. Ordered to report to Hawaii but wanting to get married he lays his plight before the General and is ordered to report at Mitchell Field, N. Y., instead.

CHAPTER IV: En route to New York Scott is stopped by police who mistake him for a bandit. He carries the mail for Uncle Sam in order to gain more flying time, and gets married.

CHAPTER V: The war edges closer and he is farther than ever from combat duty. He has been told he is too old for combat flying, and after December 7, 1941, he begins writing Generals all over the country for a chance to fly a fighter plane.

CHAPTER VI: Scott solos a flying Fortress for the first time and makes twenty practice landings. He leaves for India from a Florida coast.

CHAPTER VII: Easter Sunday in Africa. They fly along the Arabian coast and land at Karachi, India, covering 12,000 miles in eight days.

CHAPTER VIII: Col. Haynes orders the group to report at a base in Eastern Assam, on the India-Burma border.

All the country ahead of us was marked with columns of black smoke, rising straight into the clear sky. We looked for hostile ships until our eyes ached—or for any ship at all, for we knew it would be a Jap, ours being the only Allied plane in the air. We had been flying those unarmed transports so long that both of us had become used to it. Behind us in the empty cargo space I could see the crew chief and the radio operator searching the skies on both sides, with their inadequate Tommy guns at "ready" position.

CHAPTER IX

We kept low to the flat country now, so that it wouldn't be silhouetted against the sky. Moreover the trees under us caused the olive-drab of the ship to blend in, making us harder to see. I thought many times that we couldn't get lower; but we kept going down until I knew out, saying that most of the staff was on the way behind him but that General Stilwell wasn't going. At my look of surprise, he added that the General was going to walk out—that he refused to be evacuated by air. Well, for the life of me I couldn't see what face would be saved, for the British Army had gone up the road to the North, and most of the Chinese armies were also on the way out. Perhaps the General knew things that I didn't know. But I remember that Colonel Haynes and I talked it over during the minutes while we waited for the Staff to get aboard. We wanted to take General Stilwell out if we had to use force; after all, he was the Commanding General of all American forces in China, Burma, and India, and we knew he was to have a very slim chance of walking out to India through Burma.

I guess if we had captured General Stilwell and taken him back to Chungking we'd have been court-martialed and shot. But we didn't much care what happened then anyway. Burma was falling, and there seemed to be a never-ending stream of Japs coming North. I guess we thought we had a very slim chance of ever getting out alive. After all, we'd been flying around bombed Burmese towns all morning, and when you expect to see Jap fighters any minute for hours, with you in an unarmed ship, and then get to destination and the General won't go—things just don't much matter.

We loaded the anxious staff and took off for Calcutta, with over forty passengers. We could easily have taken from fifty to seventy, but the staff colonel whom we instructed to give the signal when the load was aboard evidently lost count, for he came up and told Colonel Haynes that all were inside.

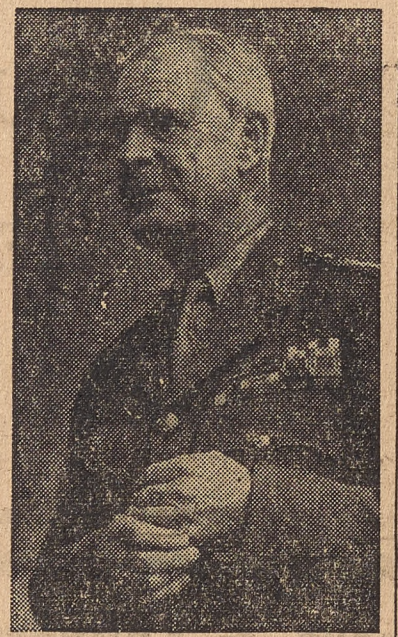

As we crossed South-Central Burma towards the town of Chittagong, we planned to come back that night and take General Stilwell out if we had to trick him into getting aboard. We crossed the many mouths of the Ganges in one of the worst rains that I've ever seen, and soon landed in the humid heat of Calcutta. While we were reserving for the second trip of some five hundred miles, Joplin landed from Assam, and Colonel Haynes had him unload his cargo and take off immediately for Shwebo.

Once again we ourselves flew through black rain across the Ganges into Burma, but when we landed we found that all had been evacuated except wounded British and American soldiers. In the half darkness, for the night was lighted by the fires of the burning villages, we loaded them on and took them to Calcutta.

General Stilwell with a few of his staff, his ADC, Colonel Dorn, and Jack Belden, war correspondent, had gone on to the North on the long trek to India by way of the Uyu and Chindwin Rivers to the Manipur Road. For weeks no one knew where he was.

One of the officers in this last cargo handed me an itinerary that the General had given him, and I resolved to try to drop food and vitamin capsules to the party as it made its way to the West. The projected itinerary would lead them from Shwebo North to the Uyu River, down that stream to the Chindwin, then down the Chindwin to Sittang and Tamu, and thence on the Manipur Road to Imphal. Using it, I expected to be able to contact them and drop the necessary food; Joplin and I even figured we could land on a sand bar in the Chindwin and pick them up. We planned all this out the next day, we flew back home, four hundred miles to the Northeast, transporting our first jeep into Assam by plane.

But though we began next day to fly into Burma to contact General Stilwell's party, again we found that there was many a slip 'twixt the cup, etc., even when one had an itinerary. After I'd crossed the Naga Hills in my single P-43, I would follow the Chindwin South until I came to Homalin. Then I'd turn to the East up the river, flying right down in the canyon formed by the thick jungle trees. I carried a Very pistol to identify myself, but learned that we had no air-to-ground liaison code with which to establish our identity to General Stilwell. As a substitute I decided to fire a green light, figuring that anything but red would indicate that I was friendly.

SEA BREEZES

Let's Laff
Maybe Think

I've made it a practice to put all my worries down in the bottom of my heart, then set on the lid and smile.—Mrs. Wiggs in "Lovey Mary."

A medically discharged Navy hero put on his civilian clothes and went for a stroll. Pausing at a corner, a spinsterish female approached him and berated him soundly for lack of patriotism, adding:

"Why isn't a man like you in the service?"

The ex-sailor looked her up and down coolly and finally replied: "Same reason you're not in Earl Carroll's Vanities—physically unfit."

He: "Yes, miss, I love dancing. It is probably in my blood."
Partner: "Then you must have had circulation—it hasn't got to your feet yet."

Two ladies were standing in a crowded street car when one seat near them was vacated. Said the first lady: "Sit down, won't you?" Replied the other, "No thank you, I'm in a hurry."

Tom: "So your wife eloped with your best friend. Who was he?"
Harry: "I don't know. I never met the guy."

"When your knees get wobbly, kneel on them."

Two U. S. Indians were talking things over between air raids in a Salipan foxhole. "The way I figure," spoke one, "when they smoked the pipe of peace in 1918, nobody inhaled."

CHIPS OFF THE OLD BLOCK

The lady of the house suspected that one of her two sons had been dating the maid. Anxious to find out which one, she said:

"Nora, if you had the opportunity of going to the movies with one of my sons, which one would you choose?"

"Oh, it's hard to say ma'am, I've had grand times with both of them. But for a real rollicking spree, give me the master."

Texas Recruit: "My wife writes that the baby is the living image of me."

Shipmate: "What do you care so long as he is healthy?"

A school teacher was recently stopped for driving through a red light and was given a ticket calling for her appearance in traffic court the following Monday. She went at once to the judge, told him that she had to be at her classes then, and asked for the immediate disposal of her case.

"So," said the judge sternly. "You're a school teacher. That's fine. Madam, your presence here fulfills a long-standing ambition for me. For years I have yearned to have a school teacher in this court. Now," he thundered, "you sit right down at that table over there and write I went through a stop sign 500 times."

S1c: "Betty swears she's never been kissed or loved or anything."
S2c: "No wonder she swears."

Every tomorrow has two handles. We can take hold of it with the handle of anxiety or the handle of faith.—H. W. Beecher.

Post-War Plan To Improve State's Highways Framed

To meet California's unquestioned need for modernizing its highway system, following the war, a complete plan for developing some 3,300 miles of California major state highways to limited access specifications has been recommended by the California Major Highway Development committee, composed of representatives of five California organizations.

The plan calls for the development of 2,700 miles of inter-state routes, consisting in the main of the two existing north-south arteries; and five present major east-west laterals to connect with transcontinental routes. The plan further provides for 600 miles of urban freeways to be constructed in California's seven metropolitan centers, thus providing an integrated system of urban and rural free-flowing traffic routes, into which will be incorporated all recognized safety devices.

Companion bills authorizing the construction of such a system were introduced in the state legislature on January 28.—Senate Bill 756 by Senators Breed, McCormick, Tenney, and Swing; and Assembly Bill 1350 by Assemblymen Stream, Niehouse, and Kraft. The bills to provide the financing are SB 757 and AB 1351.

Under these measures, the State Department of Public Works is vested with the responsibility of acquiring the necessary rights of way, and designing, constructing and maintaining the system of "Limited Access" highways. Responsibility for determining the routes for the 600 miles of freeways in the metropolitan districts is placed with the State Highway commission, but the commission is required to hold public hearings and receive the recommendations of local authorities and other interested agencies before final action is taken to determine such locations.

Plan To Boost Gas Tax
To finance the construction of the freeway system, legislation has also been introduced calling for an increase in the motor vehicle-fuel tax of 1½ cents per gallon; the revenue from the added tax to be deposited in a special Limited Access Highways fund. The Department of Public Works, in addition, is instructed to devote as much as can be legally earned in the way of Federal aid funds, together with state matching money, to the "Limited Access" system. The funds are to be expended in each county of the state in the proportion that its motor vehicle registration bears to the total motor vehicle registration of the state.

WHAT'S BUZZIN'!

—y CHERIE.

Bits o' this n' that! . . .
When your Red Cross worker comes to your door, REMEMBER, this is the most important appeal for funds in the history of American Red Cross. Regardless of the fact that your husband has given a donation where he works, try to see your way clear to sacrifice some of your household budget. You will never regret it.

Alice Ashner has just returned from a week's rest at Laguna Beach. Alice is recuperating from a recent illness, and although Old Sol didn't see his way clear to shine much of the time, Alice is feeling quite a bit better.

George McKeon, our insurance salesman and song-writer combined has returned from a two months sojourn in the state of Minnesota. George has nine new numbers he hopes to have "on the air" shortly.

Dame rumor has it that Eric Lee is selling out. And just when we got to know you folks . . . Elsie Callahan dabbled a bit in real estate recently. At least, she sold her home, and then was forced to buy it back again for want of some place to live! . . . Mrs. Morris Fried is again giving a top performance in the Red Cross Drive!

. . . Matt Monise reports that his partner, Joe Medina (Pacific Shores) is a 1st lieutenant in the Navy, and is now in the S. Pacific . . . Martha Southwell celebrated her 13th birthday March 6. She's still drooling over the luscious double strand of pearls she received from her brother, Gene. May each forthcoming birthday be better than the last, Martha!

. . . Unlike Jack Spratt, Dan Moss, Rollin Reed and Marc Strauss are all "fat eaters!" However, they like the lean along with it, so that leaves us wives "out!"

There's a certain Katie around town who has a philosophy that reminds me somewhat of the Seven Dwarfs in Snow White. They liked to whistle while they worked, and Katie likes to sing while she goes about her housework. Of course, Katie does not pretend to be a Lily Pons, but it's the spirit in which she sings that counts. She says it helps to wipe away her worries, and makes her burdens lighter. I think Katie has something there, don't you?

STYLE SHOW . . .
Here's the answer to Where to go St. Patrick's evening, Saturday, March 17! . . .

WHO? . . . Veda Moss Sports-wear.

WHAT? . . . Style show, floor show and dancing.

WHERE? . . . Mission Beach Jr. Women's Club.

WHEN? . . . 8 p.m.

Aside from the outstanding style show featured by Veda Moss Women's Shop, Slim Coats is in charge of the evening's entertainment, which in itself, is proof enough that it will be mighty good! Among the acts will be:

Eddie Guerrero . . . Latin-American soloist with guitar. This boy was formerly with Gene Austin.

Bert Howell, Magician . . . Magic with personality!

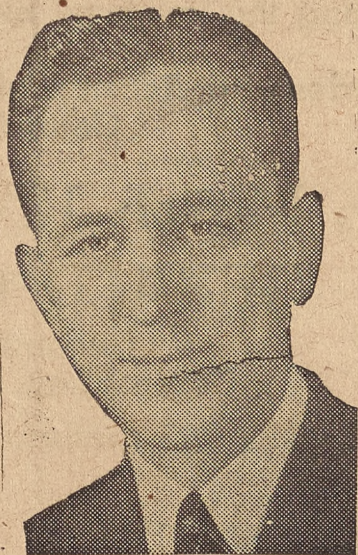

Eileen Elrod, Dancer . . . Formerly with Ballet Russe.

Scotty Derr, Imitator . . . Harry Lauder imitations that are perfect!

Dorothy Robbins, Blues Singer . . . The Gal with the incendiary Voice!

And Slim, incidentally, always gives a fine performance as master of ceremonies, and Molly Morse will do the style show commentary.

After the floor show, there will be about an hour of dancing. You can't afford to miss this event, folks!

Well, voila tout . . . which only means "That's all!"
